Hardesty's Historical and Geographical Encyclopedia [Wayne county Ohio version] page 492 East Union Township section:

"Isaac D. Huntsberger enlisted at Wooster, August 20, 1862, and at Camp Mansfield, October 17th, was mustered into Company A, 120th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. After serving at Covington, the regiment was hurried forward to Memphis, and down the Mississippi under Sherman to take part in his movement against Vicksburg. Its first battle was Chickasaw Bayou, next Arkansas Post, where companies A and F led the storming part that swept up to the fort and took it. Their next service was the inglorious canal digging at Youngs Point, where Mr. Huntsberger was detailed to act as orderly over those assigned from his company.

They also helped to bridge the bayou at Richmond, Louisiana. Thence moved under Grant toward Vicksburg, and at the bombarding of Grand Gulf Mr. Huntsberger was ill, and forced to remain an inactive spectator. He rejoined his regiment in time for the battle at Thompsons Hill, but continued with the pioneer corps until Vicksburg was reached, helping to clear the obstructions for the planting of the batteries for the battles of Champion Hills, Big Black River Bridge, and for the passage of the army to the siege. Before Vicksburg, with this corps he was digging trenches, building breastworks and planting guns. The day the Stars and Stripes floated again over that city, was the anniversary of his birth, and will ever be considered by him the proudest day of his life. With the pioneer corps he went with Grant to Jackson, and was with the regiment when it was transferred to Louisiana, where companies A and F were still singled out for special service against bushwhackers. When on the Red River expedition, the City Belle was run ashore at Snaggy Point, Mr. Huntsberger was one of the first to jump ashore, May 3, 1864. He was wounded in the heel, just as he landed, and was made prisoner. After some hours his wound was dressed, and the next day he was taken to Chaneyville prison, Louisiana, where he was held one and a half months, and saw most of those captured with him die. He was then paroled, sent to Alexandria [Louisiana], and from there into our lines. By New Orleans and St. Louis he returned to Columbus, and there he was discharged from the service February 10, 1865.

Jonas and Catharine (Dill) Huntsberger were parents of Isaac D., who was born in Cumberland county, PA, July 4, 1837. In East Union township, Wayne county, Ohio, October 19, 1865, he married Elizabeth, daughter of Jacob and Anna (Gans) Kurtz. She is a native of this township, born January 31, 1841, and their children were born here: Ira K., October 17, 1866; Harvey H., August 7, 1868; Anna E., August 24, 1870; Benjamin D., May 8, 1872; Bertha M., April 13, 1874; Elsie L., June 22, 1877; John W. and William N., August 27, 1879; Fannie G., July 22, 1883. Farming is Mr. Huntsberger's occupation, and East Union is his postoffice address.

His brother Jonas was in service and drowned at the explosion of the Sultana in the Mississippi river. His wife's brother, Benjamin F. Kurtz, died in the service, at Milliken's Bend, April 16, 1863." [See Benjamin Kurtz of this company, below.]

Looking at the census records in 1900, Ira, John and William may have gone west to Colorado and Kansas.
