DEATH TRIUMPHS SURELY AT LAST

After Being Unconscious for About 30 Hours the Life of Abel Jolliff is no More

Victim of Injuries which Resulted from Fight--Post Mortem Held--Funeral on Saturday

The injuries which Abel Jolliff received in the fight Wednesday afternoon, and which rendered him unconscious for many hours, caused that aged and respected man's death at 9:30 Thursday evening, he never regaining consciousness. All the medical and surgical aid that could be rendered by skilled physicians was useless and slowly but surely the throbbing of the heart stilled in the bosom, and life became extinct, living only in the memories of his relatives and friends.

The deceased, who is aged 63 years, it will be remembered was so injured in the fight which occurred at the farm home of George Newell north of this city, Wednesday afternoon, that he remained conscious for a short time and then went into insensibility, in which state he remained for about 30 hours until death occurred.

The body was not moved from the Newell home until late Friday morning when the Schmuck and Bevington ambulance removed the body to the home of a son of the deceased William Jolliff, on North Grant street, where it was prepared for burial.

A post mortem[sic] was held Friday afternoon by physicians and Coroner Zaring viewed the body Friday morning. It will be determined if possible what caused the death and this will be used as evidence when the grand jury investigates the case at its next session.

The funeral of the deceased will be held from the Disciple church, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The body will be lain to rest in the Wooster cemetery. The deceased is mourned by two sons, and two brothers, besides a large circle of friends. The sons are Will and Walter, the former residing in this city and the latter in Canton. Manuel, a brother of the deceased, resides in Jefferson and Ephraim another brother resides in Iowa.

The two sons and William's wife were at the bedside of the father when death arrived and the brothers have been notified of the death.

Miller in Jail

Bert Miller, who was arrested until further developments[sic] the case, he being the other party in the fight, is now a prisoner in the county jail, having been taken from the city lockup by Chief of Police Leiner Thursday afternoon. The warrant[sic] on which Miller is held charges assault [sic] with intent to kill, and he will be held until the next session of the grand jury when the case will be investigated.

Drs. J. H. Lehr and H. D. Braden Held Autopsy--Death Was Due to Blood Clot.

Coroner Zaring completed his inquest in the death of Abel Jolliff Friday afternoon in the Prosecutor's office in the court house. The testimony of the deceased man's son, William and George Newell was taken, also the testimony of Drs. J. H. Lehr and H. D. Braden, who performed the autopsy. The testimony will be beneficial evidence in Miller's behalf at the time of his trial, should there be one. The doctors testified that there were no marks on the head of the deceased that would indicate that he had been struck by the handle of a fork or even by the fist. They testified that death was caused by a clot of blood forming in the head and this, they stated, was no doubt caused by the fall.

LOSES LIFE

Falls from Wagon and Receives Fatal Injuries

The injuries which Abel Jolliff received in the fight Wednesday afternoon, and which rendered him unconscious for many hours, caused that aged and respected man's death at 9:30 Thursday evening, he never regaining consciousness. All the medical and surgical aid that could be rendered by skilled physicians was useless and slowly but surely the throbbing of the heart stilled in the bosom, and life became extinct, living only in the memories of his relatives and friends.

The body was not moved from the Newell home until late Friday morning when the Schmuck and Bevington ambulance removed the body to the home of a son of the deceased William Jolliff, on North Grant street, where it was prepared for burial.

The fight occurred Wednesday afternoon, on the farm operated by George Newell, located near the Childrens' Home. There are several reports as to how the fight started, but according to those that were present and according to a statement of Miller made to the News, it was started suddenly and with but few words.

Mr. Jolliff is an operator of a threshing machine and clover huller and was at work on the above named farm hulling clover. Bert Miller, has been an employe[sic] of George Newell's for some time and was helping with the work. The threshing outfit arrived at the farm home sooner than was expected and the clover had not been hauled from the field to the place of threshing. It was decided that all should take hold and help and as the job was not a very large one they concluded that they could finish it without trouble or delay. The machine had been fed all of the clover that had been hauled and Bert Miller together with Mr. Newell had gone to the field, which was nearby, to get another load. After the load had been fairly started, Mr. Jolliff had his son Will, went to the field also. According to the statement of Mr. Miller, when Mr. Jolliff neared the load of clover, he began to find fault with the loading, as to the width of the load and stated that the corners were too rounding. After rounding the load he climbed upon the wagon from the rear to assist Mr. Miller.

It seems that men had been together but a short time when Mr. Miller objected to complaints of Mr. Jolliff and stated that he could load it himself. At any rate a few words passed between them, the exact words probably will never be known, as they could not be understood by those on the ground, and the fighting began. It is not known who struck the first blow or even which one did the striking but they clinched and Mr. Newell not knowing that there was serious trouble on top of the load went to the horses heads and started them forward.

What Caused Injuries?

What caused the injuries of Jolliff? is the question that will have to be determined. He is severely bruised about the head and one of his ribs is broken, the end of which punctured his lung.

I did not hit Jolliff once, stated Miller to a News reporter Thursday morning. He got his injuries from the fall. I also was injured from the fall. Look at the gash, above my eye. That is when I got that. I was hit by Jolliff but that did not cause the flesh wound, Miller continued.

"When Miller struck me I simply tried to hold him and protect myself and did not strike at him" was Miller's last statement.

"Why did you leave the premises?" asked the reporter.

"Because I was ordered to by Mr. Newell," was the answer. "he was mad because the fight occurred and ordered me to leave."

MILLER IN JAIL

Bert Miller, who was arrested until further developments the case he being the other party in the fight, is now a prisoner in the county jail, having been taken from the city lockup by Chief of Police Leiner Thursday afternoon. The warrant[sic] on which Miller is held charges assault[sic] with intent to kill, and he will be held until the next session of the grand jury when the case will be investigated.

Soon after it happened and as Miller was wanted and as he was not at the farm Chief of Police Leiner and Sheriff Caskey started to find him. They drove to the home of Miller's divorced wife on the Fredericksburg road about 7 miles from Wooster, and the information was secured that when Miler completed his work at Newill's he was going to work for James Bevington who resides on the road which passes cemetery hill.

I am here was answered to the Sheriff's inquiry and Mr. Miller came forth and gave himself up peaceably[sic].
