Death of Samuel Garber. Mr. Samuel Garber was found dead in his home in the north-east part of Norman on Sunday afternoon last, his body lying across the threshold of the house. Physicians think he died from suffocation, caused by the rupture of an artery. Indications are that while lying on his couch taking an after-dinner nap, he was taken with a coughing spell, which ruptured an artery in his throat, and that he got up and staggered to the front door to spit out the blood. Several big splashes of blood between the couch and door show that he was not able to retain the blood which came up into his mouth, and when he got to the door he fell on his face and the blood smothered him. He was quite dead when found.	Mr. Garber was 82 years of age and an old soldier. He lived alone, but near his daughter, Mrs Lizzie Bennett, and his son; in the same yard. He ate dinner with his daughter, and appeared as well and jolly as usual. His funeral was held Monday afternoon from the house, services being conducted by Elder J. R. Carmack followed by ritualistic services of the G. A. R. at the grave in Odd Fellows' cemetery. Mr. Garver was one of Norman's highly respected citizens and his children have the sincere sympathy of the community. He had seven children living. Those present at the funeral were: Mrs. E. M. Adkins, of Duncan, I. T.; Mrs. Davis. Mrs. Bennett, and Mr. John Garber of this city.
